AREQUIPA, Peru, Aug, 29, 1896.

ED PROSPECTOR :- After a somewhat tracted silence I again write you with the view of furnishing your readers with some valuable and intersting notes,

Since my last letter I have been traveling quite extensively in this republic, crossing the great Andes to the headwaters of the Amazon at two different points more than three hundred miles spart.

The vegetable, animal and mineral kangdom of this region, situated between the degrees of 13 and 16 south latitude, cannot be surpassed any. Fairbank, : Arizona, where in the world, most of it being in in idle and virgin state,

Down from the precipitous water sheds of the Atlautic sides of the Andes at the confluence of the Challuma river with the Inambari, where PAY THE EXCHANGE A VISIT the elevation is 993 meters above the sea, the surrounding country is plentiful with fish, fowl and large game, among which may be mentioned the cat-fish, wild turkey, monkey, wildcat, wild chicken, duck, Mame Vecuna and alpaca. A few pioneers have penstrated there ellent forests, so little known to civiliz d man, and have planted small farmes of coffee and coors which flourish wherever planted. The rutber tree, quinine, ceder, caobs and other valuable woods abound and the whole country is a perfect net work of rivers, all flowing into the great Amazon. The country is perfectly healthy and those who are living there are fresh looking and robust. Most all the country in the provinces of Sandia and Carabaya are only inhabited by wild and cowardly Indians who subsist on the yucs, wild fruit and the chase.

From what I have seen personally and data that I have gathered from a Table Supplied With the Best. great many very reliable foreign and native citizens, the province of Carasays is destined to rival if not surpass the days of '49 in California. The weal hof these regions is not all og ther new to the Peruviane, yet the hardships and imaginary dangers of an expedition to these lands were too trying to the effiminate and qu'et native, but there is no obstacle but what the incomitable Yankee will not surmount; and last June Mr. Harding of California, whom I met here in Arequpa, purchased the Santo Domingo mine for $200,000 gold, and when I was at Jailieaca railroad station the other day on the Bolivis frontier, there was 50 tons of freight awaiting transportation by mules and llamas to the mine a distance of six days travel by spimal. The road agent told me that he saw one man ship one hundred and kety pounds of gold in nuggets from there, and I saw a great many Indiana selling dust and nuggets to the border

This country is beginning to attract foreigners and there is an expedition being formed in Lima and another in Paris, France, for these regions. The set and salest time to go there is at the end of March after the rainy

The country abounds in placer and parts mines, and any foreigner can ounce a mine very cheaply.
